

Case Study

A photograph showing the back of a person with short brown hair and glasses, wearing a grey t-shirt and a dark backpack with orange stripes. They are standing in front of a large, illuminated flight information display board at an airport. The board shows numerous flight details in white text on a blue background.

Dedicated Consumer Technical Support Provides Trust and Flexibility

NEC Display Solutions, a global display manufacturer, amps up consumer technical support model, creating strong relationships and trust from top to bottom.

Dedicated Consumer Technical Support Provides Trust and Flexibility

NEC DISPLAY SOLUTIONS

A wholly-owned subsidiary of NEC Corporation, NEC Display Solutions designs, produces and delivers leading-edge visual display solutions for a wide range of markets and applications, including education, digital signage, graphics, healthcare, restaurants, retail and transportation. This includes a broad selection of desktops, large-screen displays and multi-media and digital cinema projectors, coupled with expertise in hardware/software consulting, financing, system configuration and maintenance and support.

CLIENT CHALLENGE

As a global leader in display solutions, with applications ranging from airport monitors to restaurant menu boards, NEC was looking for a knowledgeable and flexible contact center partner to handle the consumer technical support for both their monitor and projector divisions, which had consolidated into one all-encompassing unit. Given the number of applications and industries that their products are used for, and the fact that this partner would be responsible for multiple levels of customer facing interaction, it was imperative that NEC find a partner who is adaptable, intelligent and showed technical acumen when walking customers through complicated technical issues.

“As an extension of our business, Aureon Contact Center has knowledgeable people that genuinely care about our customers and that is reflected in every interaction they have.”

CRAIG ROTHENBERGER,
NEC DISPLAY SOLUTIONS

THE AUREON SOLUTION

NEC partnered with Aureon Contact Center, seeking reliable and responsive consumer technical support for its broad array of products. Aureon quickly assimilated themselves and soon functioned as an extension of the NEC business, taking ownership of three customer service levels while cross-training its agents to work proficiently within each one.

Aureon agents receive the same training as NEC technicians. Combined with a multi-tier escalation approach, problems rarely have to be escalated to NEC. Aureon's trained representatives also have access to all of the NEC products, so they can answer any customer questions and walk through solutions in real time.

Whether it is through phone, live online chat or emails, Aureon's support, which runs the gamut from troubleshooting to billing, has enabled NEC to ensure they are providing the highest level of support possible while being able to focus on the big picture.

“They are creative self-starters, and the knowledge of their long-tenured staff consistently goes above and beyond the call of duty.”

CRAIG ROTHENBERGER,
NEC DISPLAY SOLUTIONS

BUSINESS IMPACT

Since beginning to work with Aureon, the effects have been on full display. NEC has experienced a heightened level of dedication that stems from the consistent team that Aureon has put in place. Having a strong relationship with Aureon has provided for peace of mind that comes with working with a partner who offers a developed base of highly trained agents and a personalized approach to serving NEC customers.

Many customers know the contact center agents by name and have developed relationships that are just as strong as those between Aureon and NEC. This has created a chain of trust from top to bottom, allowing Aureon the autonomy to not only confidently answer customer issues, but expand the scope of support without needing to request help from the NEC staff.

Aureon has given NEC budget flexibility as well. Depending on whether there are escalated call volumes or down times, Aureon Contact Center prepares its staffing levels accordingly. A tenured staff is one that is knowledgeable and happy; two traits that are not lost on customers. The end result is satisfied, loyal customers, which is a benefit worth projecting for all to see.

For more information, visit AureonContactCenter.com or call 800-588-4082..

AUREON.COM

Connect with AUREON. Connect with SOLUTIONS.

AUREON®